Find your 'why' and you'll be UNSTOPPABLE!

I've always had an entrepreneurial spirit. I have always felt a pull towards creating my own business, being my own boss and doing things the way I wanted. The idea of nine to five, day in and day out never appealed to me, ever.

After having my son I never felt more strongly about wanting to have the lifestyle I deserved and the freedom I needed to be a big part of my sons' life. Like so many other moms and dads, putting my son in daycare and having someone else raise him was something that felt completely wrong to me. Then, when I became a single mom, my desire to show him he can be or do anything he wants became even more important to me.

How could I show him that if I wasn't doing it myself?

So I kept at my business, even when things never seemed to go right.

Finding a business that suits your needs and desires may be a journey, as it was for me. But finally working with a company that fits my lifestyle has allowed me to work around my son's schedule.

In this business we often talk about your reason 'why', the reason you are working your business.

> This reason will take you through the times when you feel like quitting, when it feels too hard or you feel like you are not achieving the things you desire.

My son Hayden is my reason why!

Running a business from home means that I can be there at the important times for my son. It means that I can pick him up and drop him off at school. It means that he will see his mom doing something she loves and working on her own terms, and he'll learn from that.

There is a quote from a successful Network Marketer named Jan Ruhe that I carry in my page of inspiration, along with a picture of Hayden and the caption "My Why" above it.

"Jan Ruhe is my mother and the inspiration in my life".
Clayton White (Jan Ruhe's son) from MLM Nuts & Bolts by Jan Ruhe.

This really does sum up my 'Why'. Not only is it important to me to give Hayden the lifestyle that will allow the things he needs and more, but I truly hope the integrity and character I choose to bring to my business and life will inspire him to be the very best person he can be as well. Of course the benefits of being my own boss and owning my life are very important reasons as well, but Hayden is and will always be my number one reason 'why'.

Let me share with you something that really moved me as a mother. As we were leaving to go to playgroup the other day, Hayden (who's four) said to me "Let's cuddle up and sing the lovey song". Now this is a common occurance, he will sit with and hug me and sing : "I love you, you love me, we're a happy family. With a great big hug and a kiss from me to you, won't you say you love me to."

To me this is the most important thing, to know he is happy, feels love and shows it. What reason could be more important than that? ☺
