"I'd love to get involved in an MLM compensation plan, but I just don't have time." How often have you told yourself that? Look, if you have time to come home from work and cook dinner, you have time to make money in your spare time and hopefully grow that side business into something wonderful.

The advantage to multi-level marketing is that there is no right or wrong time to devote to it – but you need to make the investment.

So you have kids and a spouse, social obligations and even a full time job... what now? When everything is done at the end of the day you don't want to think about working on something else, but if you don't dedicate something to your MLM compensation plan it won't take off. So, here are a few ideas to get your plan motivated.

1) Take five! For five minutes on the hour, every hour, do something to promote your MLM compensation plan. This could be a post to your Twitter or Facebook account, a comment on a relevant blog, or a phone call to a friend asking them to sample your product. Word of mouth drives this business, so open it!

2) Take it with you! Everywhere you go during the day, leave behind a memento of your MLM compensation plan. Print up postcards and business cards and leave them at coffee shops, restaurants, community bulletin boards... anywhere you can place them. People do pick up what interests them, and you could gain new leads this way.

3) Get wired! Everybody does business on mobile these days. If you have a mobile phone or tablet, take every spare moment to do something for your MLM compensation plan. Use your downtime at lunch to blog and check mail, and take pictures of your product to tweet. A little goes a long way.

Before you realize it, you've devoted valuable time in the day to promoting your products and bringing people closer to your program. Give it a try, and soon you'll find working on multi-level marketing works quickly, in no time at all, to earn you a good income.
