Why Should You Listen To Me?

Twenty-one years ago, I broke the code to a social network called America Online (AOL). I used their live chatting features to develop a 'simple formula' that helped me add thousands of likeminded people to a network marketing business in 18 months.

The term 'SOCIAL NETWORK' wasn't used back then but everyone engaged in live chatting. Today live chatting is also called texting or private messaging and is one of Facebook's most popular features. The number of social networks has increased dramatically over the years and so has the number of people on them. Social networks have come and gone. At it's peak AOL had 36 million users. Today, Facebook has 1.65 billion users and the formula works on it better than ever before.

Since I introduced the formula, I've trained and shared it with hundreds of thousands of network marketers who in turn have trained and influenced the millions of people that they work with.

The formula has worked for everyone on all of the social networking sites that came after AOL. (ICQ, Yahoo, MySpace, Tagged, Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter, Google +, Google Hang Outs, Skype, Instagram, YouTube, Pinterest, etc.) Live chatting is exactly like talking and can produce instant results and an immediate sale when you're connected with the right people and saying the right things. Part time network marketers have used the formula and live chatting to go full time in their business. Your next affiliate, client, customer, distributor, rep or team builder is available to chat with you on Facebook right now.
